

MORS Conference

Thomas F. Ramos

Counterproliferation Analysis at LLNL

Abstract:

This talk first discusses what programs presently existing within the national weapons laboratories bring value-added capabilities to the analysis of potential and existing proliferation threats to the US and its allies. The general area of counterproliferation analysis is broken down into distinct, but mutually supporting, categories that are being addressed at Livermore. Descriptions of the analytical problems associated with each of these categories are given. Examples from several of these analytical studies will be given .

*This work was performed under the auspices of the U.S. Department of Energy by Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory under Contract No. W-7405-Eng-48.